Topic	Date	Notes
How social stories and comic strip conversations help children with anxiety or autism.	Friday 6th January	As anxiety is at the root of so many behaviours, anyone wanting a greater understanding of these would benefit from attending. A quick drop-in session to help you write them for children in your class or at home.
Does your child rock on their chair or fiddle? Do they struggle with noisy, busy situations? Do they leave going to the toilet until the last moment? Are they really fussy about food? Do they get upset suddenly? It's sensory!	Friday 13th January	How do I know if my child has a sensory issue? WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF SENSORY ISSUE, e.g. sight, hearing, touch, taste, smell, interoception, proprioception, balance, etc? Is my child over- or under-sensitive and how can you be both?
Is your child impulsive? emotional? disorganised? inflexible? no self-awareness? off task? can't remember what they were supposed to be doing? forgets what they have learned? It's executive functioning!	Friday 3rd February	We will be looking at children who over-react or are not maximising their potential. We will be trying to map, understand, and change disruptive or unhelpful learning behaviour at home or at school. We are fortunate to have a very experienced retired educational psychologist co-presenting at this and other sessions.
